Better Polio Vaccine Claimed by Russia

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Soviet scientist said yesterday that Russia has produced a polio vaccine which gave "much better protection" than the Salk vaccine.

Dr. Alexei V. Tufanov, of the Poliomyelitis Research Institute in Moscow, said the Soviet Union planned to inoculate all its children between six months and 14 years of age. He said that "of course" the government would pay all costs.

Jury Clears Boy On Murder Count In 103 Minutes

An assize court jury yesterday ruled Matthew John Till, 16, "not guilty of murder, but guilty of manslaughter," to conclude a trial which had lasted two weeks before Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan.

The youth was remanded for sentence, which Mr. Justice Ruttan said would be fixed at a date he would announce later.

Young Till had been charged with the murder of his foster-father, Charles Mudge, last Sept. 13 in the family's Melchior Road home.

Standing in the prisoner's box, slim, fair-haired Johnny Till heard the verdict with bowed head, his pale face slightly flushed. He looked up at the bench once, then down again and blinked once or twice before leaving the courtroom with his RCMP escort.

The jury took one hour and 43 minutes to reach their verdict, retiring at 4:07 p.m. and returning at 5:50 p.m.

Earlier in the afternoon they heard Mr. Justice Ruttan's instructions, which took more than an hour and a half to deliver.

Over-Rough Terrain

"One of the variables in connection with liquor," said Mr. McKenna, "is what the individual is doing while drinking. On this occasion, the two were out in the air, walking over rough terrain, during the morning."

"At home, after Johnny had hung the grouse they'd shot in the basement, and after Mudge had picked some tomatoes, the four were together in a small, warm kitchen. Johnny was still wearing the heavy shirt and other clothing in which he'd gone hunting..."

"The two drinks in the kitchen were social drinks, and the four took their time over them. The second drink here was apparently the one that knocked Johnny out—but is that remarkable?"

Here Mr. McKenna said that by "knocked out" he meant the brain, and ability to think rationally, were affected.

"A man can pass out and still walk around on his feet."

Said the defence counsel: "Johnny doesn't know now if he had lunch that day or not. He remembers nothing more until he was sitting in the truck, and saw he had blood on him."

"I submit that in a situation like that you don't snap out of it. There is a fuzzy edge—a period of cloudiness, of confusion. What would even a grown man do in that situation? Johnny kept on going."

Mr. McKenna referred to the beating and attacks on Mrs. Mudge that day at the house, and the death of Mr. Brand.

"We are concerned here," he said, "only with the death of Mr. Mudge... these other matters are incidental."

Asleep in the Den

Mrs. Mudge had said she had looked in on her father, asleep in the den, and last thing she remembered was starting back to the kitchen, then coming to in the basement, lying in a pool of blood.

Articles of her clothing were found in the basement that had been cut in two by a knife.

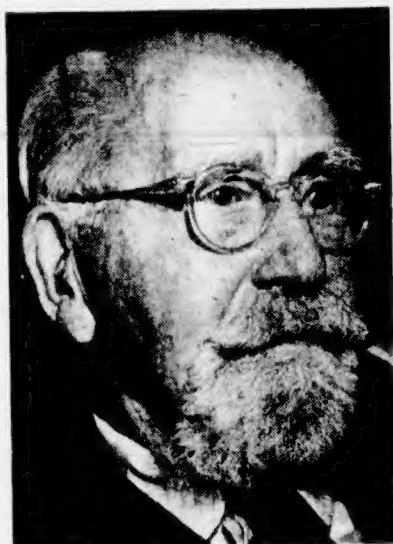

Mr. McKenna submitted that anyone removing clothing in this manner was "demented or very drunk."

Till's counsel also attacked Mrs. Mudge's trial testimony that the youth had asked her, when both were leaving the house and before she made her escape to a neighbor's home, to let him drive the car. It would be, she said he told her, his last chance to do so.

Pointing out that this had not been brought out at the preliminary hearing, Mr. McKenna submitted that in this regard Mrs. Mudge did not tell the truth.

Mr. McKenna, speaking throughout in a quiet voice, opened with an outline of the characters and background involved in this tragedy.

HERBERT KENT... touch of weariness

Herbert Kent Dies at 96

By BARNEY MCKINLEY

Victoria lost its venerable man of song and a gentle symbol of its near-century of history with the peaceful death yesterday of pioneer Herbert Kent at the full rich age of 96.

He died quietly in St. Joseph's Hospital, just as twilight was falling on the city he loved, of "a touch of weariness" at the end of a long, honorable life.

SIGNS OF TIREDNESS

He had been taken to the hospital Tuesday for a rest after he showed signs of tiredness Monday at his life-long home, 238 Douglas, opposite Beacon Hill Park.

His life was one month older than this city he loved and served well during the decades of its growth. He was born in Manchester on July 13, 1862.

Victoria was incorporated as a city one month later.

He came from England to this city with his parents two years later in a day when the raw streets of the city were ankle-deep in mud, fire engines were hand-drawn, water was delivered from door to door, a creek ran down a Johnson Street ravine.

The contemporaries of his boyhood with whom he went to the old Angela College, pioneer Victoria school, have predeceased him, but he didn't forget them in the journals he kept while at the same time he kept pace with the changing years.

HONORED AS PIONEER
This centennial year he was honored as a pioneer, and few have had better right, and

Tariff Boost Seen in U.S.

EASTBOURNE, England (CP)—United States Ambassador John Whitney told British exporters Friday night there are indications his country "is going to become more protectionist rather than less."

Impact on U.S.

Salesman Philip Urged

EASTBOURNE, England (CP)—One of Britain's most successful exponents of the soft-sell technique suggested Friday that British exporters enlist the aid of Prince Philip to make British achievements in science, industry and technology better known in North America.

Cmdr. Edward Whitehead, bearded president of the North American branches of a soft-drink organization, told delegates attending the Dollar Exports Council conference that Philip's televised lecture a year ago explaining Britain's part in launching the International Geophysical Year had a "tremendous impact" in the United States.

OUT OF THEIR WAY

"A very large number of Americans went out of their way to see this on television and were thus made aware that someone other than themselves and the Russians was making a contribution."

Whitehead said he is convinced that such an indirect approach is more effective than any form of "buy British" campaign, which could cause resentment and produce reverse effects.

LARGE U.S. CONCERNS

He suggested British industry should emulate large United States concerns which purchase an hour's time on a countrywide television network and put on a spectacular.

Whitehead said British trade organizations, rather than individual firms, might sponsor two or three such programs a year in Canada and the United States.

Artificial Planet Would Be First

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The army blasted the first space probe toward the moon and sun early today and all four stages of the launching rocket fired successfully.

All that was needed for the satellite called Pioneer III to streak into space was for it to attain the 24,900-mile-an-hour speed needed to escape the main pull of the earth's gravity.

The powerful Juno II rocket, bearing its 13-pound satellite payload, roared aloft at 9:45 p.m. PST Friday.

The mission: to shoot past the moon deep into outer space where Pioneer III could swing into orbit around the sun.

If it is successful, Pioneer III would travel farther than any other man-made object and become the first artificial planet.

One hour and 25 minutes after a spectacular liftoff the army announced officially: "The second, third and fourth stages of the United States four-stage experimental space vehicle... have been fired successfully. The launching of the experimental space vehicle has now been accomplished."

The 76-foot space craft climbed ponderously at first into the starless Florida sky, but accelerated rapidly.

Curves Into Space

After about 60 seconds, the rocket curved gracefully and arched toward the northeast.

Scientists hope the probe will gather more vital information about an intense field of radiation above the earth. They are also anxious to see just how far their space probe can go.

The 60-ton rocket was composed of a modified Jupiter intermediate range ballistic missile as the boost for three stages of solid-fuel Sergeant rockets.

The upper stages were practically identical to those used in the Jupiter rockets that hurried three Explorer earth satellites into orbit.

The missile was in sight for more than three minutes before it suddenly puffed out of sight. This apparently was the burn-out of the first stage Jupiter engine.

The rocket climbed up on 150,000 pounds of thrust generated by the Jupiter's liquid-fuel engine.

The launching came right at the time prescribed after a lengthy countdown. It appeared to be perfect.

In effect, the army missile men aimed Pioneer III directly at the moon, but because of the uncontrollable errors involved in celestial mechanics the chances of hitting it were slight.

If all went well, the probe would cross the path of the moon, more than 220,000 miles away, after a flight of 33 hours, 45 minutes.

Into Distant Orbit

Then it was supposed to shoot on to more than 400,000 miles away, where the scientists hoped it would go into a distant orbit around the sun.

The launching came in the wake of three air force attempts to orbit the moon with success. Pioneer I came closest Oct. 11 when it penetrated 79,000 miles out into space.

The first army shot was less difficult because no lunar orbit was attempted. The moon—only 2,000 miles in diameter—is a small target for a shot from earth—like firing a gun from a moving merry-go-round at a moving clay pigeon.

The 23-inch-long, cone-shaped rocket was equipped with a photoelectric sensing device, shaped somewhat like a pistol, which would be activated by the light of the moon.

The experiment was included to test a triggering device which could operate a TV-link scanning camera on future shoots toward the vicinity of the moon. The air force Pioneer carried scanners to send crude pictures of the lunar surface, but they never came into use.

Also aboard the army probe were two geiger-counter tubes to measure radiation and a timing radio transmitter operating on 960.05 megacycles.

The battery-powered transmitter will have a lifetime of about 75 hours.

Buffalo Steak For Holiday

OTTAWA (CP)—Buffalo steaks and roasts will be on the market before Christmas, the northern affairs department announced Friday.

About 350 animals will be taken from the 1,000-head herd in Elk Island National Park, 30 miles east of Edmonton. Operations are to start on Monday. A large meat-packing firm was the successful bidder.

Above Fish

Socreds To Dam Fraser

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—The B.C. government is planning construction of two dams in the upper reaches of the Fraser River to prevent spring floodings and provide power to be fed into the proposed Wenner-Gren hydro-electric system.

The scheme has been drawn up as a result of a report by the Fraser River Flood Control Board, to be published within the next 10 days.

BEYOND RUNS

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston told a public meeting here Thursday night the dams will be beyond runs of "merchantable" fish and will produce two large lakes.

He said the main dam will be at the confluence of the McGregor River, east of Prince George, and the second at the head of Roche Valley, near McBride. The McGregor dam would back water up to Dome Creek and bring a flood plane to Aleza and Eagle Lakes.

IN HIGH GEAR

Mr. Williston said the government proposes to put the program into high gear to ensure the dams are completed before recurrence of spring floods of 1894 and 1948.

The minister also said negotiations have been started by the Wenner-Gren organization for purchase of land north of Prince George as the site of a transformer to be used in transmitting power from its planned Peace River development.

The Peace River power would be converted to direct current for transmission to the Lower Mainland and also would go into Alberta and communities west of Prince George, he said.

Two deaths were attributed to Thursday's storm. It was feared the toll would rise to four—two duck hunters disappeared during the gale.

HALIFAX (CP)—A new storm moved toward the Maritimes Friday night in the wake of the season's first big blow that pummeled the coastal provinces.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

The Colonist's special birthday edition, Thursday, will be the next best thing to a trip in the time machine.

I have just been looking at some of the page-proofs. They make me feel like Bridey Murphy, or Bridey's old dad, catching up on some back reading.

This is a different kind of birthday edition. It is filled with news stories and classified advertisements lifted from Colonist files over the 100 years, and printed as though the events happened yesterday.

The result is a dream-like

Ads Conjure Up Past

That's only a small sample of it. Dispatches from various times and places tell of the death of Queen Victoria, the bestowal of knighthood on Sir James Douglas and the first appearance of Cadborosaurus. But the past is conjured up most vividly by the classified advertisements. There are many columns of these.

"Fresh milk, 25 cents a gallon," says one ad of 1870, and another, the same year:

All This and Music, Too

"Concordia beer garden... Douglas and Yates Street. The place to spend a pleasant hour. Best wines, liquors and cigars. Lager, 5 cents a glass. Refreshment bar. Music Twice Each Week."

There is a great deal in the birthday newspaper to arouse hunger, thirst and regret. Older readers will shed a tear or two for the money they might have made. If they had spent their childhood pocket money on downtown real estate.

Reeve's Report Cites Parks, Beaches, Roads

Reeve A. C. Wurtle of Esquimalt last night issued a report on the municipality's affairs for 1958, and urged voters to turn out Dec. 11.

"The main works carried out by the public works staff this year," he said, "have been the development of Gorge Park, further development of Fleming Beach, opening the Gorge Park (Gosper Crescent) subdivision, development of the Rock Heights (Transfer) subdivision, a large number of sidewalks and curbs on a local improvement plan, and the renewal of roads where such curbs were put in; improved lighting, particularly on Esquimalt Road, renewal of boulevards and general maintenance work. Winter work on a federal sharing basis has been commenced. Space does not permit a detailed summary.

"We are most grateful to the Kinsmen Club for funds donated, interest and time given by that club towards the development of the Kinsmen Gorge Park Esquimalt can be justly proud of this new park with its fine warm salt water swimming pool.

"We are grateful too, to the Esquimalt Anglers for the provision of funds for a second boat ramp on Fleming Beach. The two ramps are now used extensively by persons from all over Lower Vancouver Island. It is planned to develop this area as a park with shrubs, paths, parking facilities and a bathing beach.

Mudge as a voluptuous woman. You saw her here... Apart from her looks, every woman is an actress. We men have put them in that position...

BEYOND HIS MEANS

Mr. Mudge, said the lawyer, was "living beyond his means."

even with his income of $300 per month and his wife's income of $190. On a $17,000 home they had paid $5,000 down. The house contained all modern comforts, and on top of that there was liquor every where...

HE WAS DECEITFUL

"Mudge thought he was being kind, but he was deceitful. He and Johnny were gangling up to fool Mrs. Mudge. The foster-father co-operated with Johnny to deceive the woman. You may wonder about the young man hiding wine in his cupboard, but is there any wonder?"

Mr. McKenna concluded: "Gentlemen, from my heart I say again, you have two alternatives: 'You may acquit this youth.'

BAD CONSCIENCE

"If you want to go home with a conscience you can stay with, and not go through life with a bad conscience; if you want to do your duty before God, then you will find him guilty of manslaughter."

Prosecutor Lloyd McKenzie reminded the jury once more that only Till was on trial, and as for the murder of Mudge. As to the reported large quantity of alcohol consumed by Johnny on Sept. 13, he said all evidence came from the accused and no one else.

LONG, LONG TIME

"Till," he said, "had been drinking for a long, long time. We heard the astonishing report that he had his first drink when he was six weeks old. That, we were told by his mother, was given him by his father."

"Mudge was guilty of an error in judgment by allowing the boy to persuade them to give him alcohol in any quantity.

FROM OUTSET

"From the outset, we are trying to reconstruct what happened. I suggest that no one will ever know exactly what happened that day. We have no running commentary from an intelligent, disinterested spectator."

"You have before you every detail that could be found to be of assistance to you. I reconstruct:

FORMED INTENTION

"The boy formed an intention of being intimate with Mrs. Mudge. He could not accomplish this through any medium of persuasion. There were no intimate relations in a romantic sense."

"I suggest Till picked up a metal bar, went upstairs, and hit Mrs. Mudge over the head from the back, causing a four-inch wound. This was the first of many wounds caused that afternoon."

INTO TILL'S ARMS

"Mrs. Mudge," the prosecutor continued, "either fell down the basement stairs or fell into Till's arms and was dragged downstairs."

"He had a desire for the woman, but there were two men in the house sure to be opposed to that desire."

TILL SHOT HIM

"I suggest Mudge came in from the garden, and just as he was outside the doorway Till shot him with .303 rifle through the left breast. Either he fell inside or Johnny pulled him in, then shut the door."

ANOTHER RIFLE

"Johnny then went upstairs, picking up another rifle. The old man (Brandt) may have been aroused from his sleep by the first shot. The accused stood in the den door, and fired..."

"Johnny then went back to Mrs. Mudge, finding her coming back to some early stage of consciousness. The boy did not want her conscious in the basement, so she came to with him holding her by the arm and beating her."

HEARD GROANS

"It was then she heard groans, and saw Johnny walk over and fire into the prone body of Mudge with a shotgun."

Mr. McKenzie then outlined briefly the further attacks on Mrs. Mudge and her evidence that Till had tried to keep her from seeing her father."

"If Johnny was so drunk he was just flailing around and incapable of forming any intent," said Mr. McKenzie, "why was he so solicitous about keeping her from seeing her father?"

COULDN'T DRIVE

"Later, when Mrs. Mudge ran off with the station wagon keys, Till knew he couldn't drive that car but had the wit to get the truck and get out of there—with the knife."

Potential defences available to Till, said the prosecutor, were insanity (which Mr. McKenna said they did not propose to use) and drunkenness. The prosecutor said Till's behavior was consistent with a nip or two from the small bottle of rum, which then was finished off with the two rounds before lunch.

Despite the story of the vast amount consumed that day, Mr. McKenzie said nothing out of the ordinary was noticed by RCMP at a game warden's check-point passed by Mudge and Till on their way home from hunting.

KEPT CONTROL

"Every crime," said Mr. McKenzie, "is the result of impulse. All of us have had the experience of being roused, but we have kept control."

"In this case, Johnny yielded and obeyed an impulse to eliminate opposition."

BOTH PRESENT

Mr. Justice Ruttan first gave the jury general instructions, including definitions of circumstantial and direct evidence, "both of which are present in this case." He then told them they could bring in one of four possible verdicts:

Not guilty; guilty of murder; guilty of manslaughter; or not guilty by reason of insanity.

SELF-DEFENCE

Possibilities which must be considered included self-defence, of which there was no indication here; provocation, and again no evidence of this; drunkenness; amnesia or blackout, and insanity.

"The law," said Mr. Justice Ruttan, "says if a man kills, he is presumed to intend to kill except if he is too drunk to form an intent to kill."

TOO DRUNK

"If he is too drunk to form the intent, then the verdict must be manslaughter. He may be too inflamed to control his passions, but not too drunk to form an intent..."

Of amnesia, the judge said accused told he could remember nothing from the drink around 2:30 p.m. until he came to on the road to Port Renfrew at about 10:30 p.m.

NO EXCUSE

"Loss of memory is no excuse. It does not say that the person concerned was not aware at the time of what was going on. Amnesia is not a defence, but often a condition of drunkenness."

"Insanity, if proved, is a complete defence. The burden of proof here rests with the defence, and in this case was not used by the defence."

CERTAIN INDICATIONS

Mr. Justice Ruttan said, however, that there were certain indications which might point to insanity: the peculiar savagery of the crime; lack of any provocation.

"The evidence does seem to point to a savage crime compelled, if by the accused, by some desire to have relations with Mrs. Mudge."

NO INDICATION

"I would point out that there was no indication here or in the court below of any illicit relationship or encouragement by Mrs. Mudge to the accused."

Mr. Justice Ruttan concluded with words of thanks to the jury for their close attention during the two weeks of the trial.

Awakening Giant

By Gerald Clark

Visit Has Lighter Side

HONG KONG — The frustration of dealing in a strange language, in a country combining Communist bureaucracy and Chinese mentality, can have its lighter side.

I asked the Information Department to arrange an interview with the Minister of Health. The minister, I was informed, wasn't available, but the propaganda chief of health was so I went along, accompanied by Mr. Chen, my usual interpreter.

Mr. Chen is a native of Shanghai, and I'm convinced, can hardly speak local Mandarin, let alone English. I once asked him to say "Thank you very much" to someone, but apparently it came out "What time is it?"

We had a chat with a man named Chang Chao Shen. For an hour, while the usual cups of tea were poured, Mr. Chang stared at me oddly and struggled politely but vainly to answer some general questions about public health.

"How many doctors are there in China?" I asked. "I don't know," said Mr. Chang, "but I can tell you about sparrows."

Related Discovery

It was only then that we discovered that Mr. Chang was not the propaganda chief of the Ministry of Health, but was the chief statistician for the Patriotic Sanitary Movement.

Well, since we were enjoying nice green tea, I decided to stay a while and hear all about the Patriotic Sanitary Movement. China is still engaged in the all-out campaign against "the four pests" — flies, mosquitoes and rats — because they spread disease, sparrows because they nibble at grain. Something like 650,000,000 Chinese run around with fly swatters.

One of my first sights on landing at Peiping airport was a girl whacking away at foreign flies which presumably emerged from the luggage of international travellers.

Sheer Exhaustion

The sparrows are a bit more difficult to handle. The Chinese can't issue permits to 650,000,000 people, so they've thought up an ingenious alternative. People bang away on cymbals and drums, frightening off the birds that need occasionally to alight on trees to rest. Sparrows drop from the sky out of sheer exhaustion.

British embassy people turned their compound into a bird sanctuary, but were highly criticized for giving diplomatic immunity to Chinese birds. Eventually the Chinese staff of the embassy shot off firecrackers; the terrified sparrows flew off.

Statistician Chang says: "From November 1957 to July 1958 the people have eliminated 1,600,005,000 sparrows." What about rats? Statistician Chang says: "In the same period the people eliminated 1,300,007,000 rats."

Mr. Chang swears the figures are dead-end accurate, hence the specific 5,000 and

This is the sixth in a series of 10 articles written by Montreal's Gerald Clark after a five-week tour of Communist China.

7,000. As for flies and mosquitoes, 118,000 tons of those were exterminated in the eight months.

"How are you so sure it was 118,000 tons and not 120,000 tons?" I asked. "Did people weigh each mosquito as they caught it?"

Mr. Chang said "Oh, no. The way we do it is to spread papers on floors and in bushes. We collect the dead flies and mosquitoes in batches, and then weigh them."

At least I think Mr. Chang said all this. I'll never know for sure, thanks to the ineptness of Mr. Chen as an interpreter.

Enough Statistics

We took our leave of Mr. Chang. Mr. Chen offered to accompany me to a play, which, he assured me, I would understand with him at my side. But I felt I had enough statistics for one day.

At the moment Peiping theatres offer an unexciting choice. There's "By the Banks of the Sangyang River," which is advertised as "the stirring drama of how the peasants along the bank of the river formed their co-ops, built reservoirs and power stations and finally set up a people's commune."

The Workers' Theatre has "Song of Youth," a faithful portrayal of the revolutionary youth movement in Peiping. Motion pictures are equally exciting. "The East Wind" graphically describes "the revolutionary enthusiasm of the workers in their attempt to build the Dongfeng, China's first car."

TV No Better

I watched television that night, a documentary on how to make a blast furnace in your back yard.

You really don't have much fun in China, but if you're patient, you can learn a little about Chinese logic. A diplomat's car was in a small collision, and he was afraid his driver would be considered at fault. The state insurance company finally informed the diplomat. "Since your driver is held 80 per cent responsible for the accident you will receive 80 per cent of the compensation." He's still trying to figure it out.

Rate Hikes Not Solution

CHANGE of front by the federal government at Ottawa in withdrawing objection to a further round of freight rate increases on Canadian railways has unquestionably averted a threatened tie-up of the transportation system. For that people will be grateful, but the compromise unfortunately settles little and leaves the nation with the same continuing problems unsolved.

In straight point of fact carloadings on both railways combined in the first 10 months of this year were down by seven per cent on their own tracks, and by as much as twice that from interconnected freight car movements. This reflected three obvious trends: the shrinkage in Canada's total volume of trade with the world, materially lessened business done across the border to the south, and highway competition. In short, lighter traffic on Canadian railways now and perhaps for some months to come could have been expected.

Current reports for the operating experiences of both transcontinental rail systems make the point that their expenses also were reduced. In the case of the CNR they had some need to be, because the nationally owned line ran a deficit of $11,316,000 between January and October inclusively, regardless of provision for fixed charges. In October itself there was a slight upturn on both systems, but not enough to erase the experience from the preceding months of the year.

Plugging the gaps with handouts from tax revenues for CNR year-end deficits, or with higher freight charges affecting all moving goods in Canada in the case of both rail lines in endless appeals before the transport board will not halt a turn-down in world trade. The objection of eight provinces opposing the policy of escalating freight charges rests in part on the basic ground that time has shown this course to be no solution. Canada's whole rail rate structure needs to be overhauled in the light of the facts.

Ordinary businesses do not seek to expand plants in times of industrial recession. With the railways it would seem to be different. The CNR recently was reported as ordering 125 new freight cars, to be fabricated in part from aluminum. That is a considerable order in view of the heavy and sustained reduction in carloadings. Industrially it will provide work in Canada, but factually it makes one re-examine recurring claims of reduction in operating expenses. In the long run it is the taxpayers who will pick up the tab for uneconomical rail policies in Canada.

A Piece of Cheek

A MINOR storm is developing in the world of art, not this time over the quality of paintings but their disposition. The National Gallery in Ottawa, having built a large new extension, has now plenty of room on its walls for the hundreds of pictures lent for lack of showing space, and not unnaturally the director wants them back.

What is surprising about this is that several government departments which have been using the paintings to decorate office walls refuse to return them. Cabinet ministers especially are reported to be reluctant about having them taken down, although why a government office of any kind should be doubling as an art gallery is something of a mystery. It is said that when he returns from his world tour Mr. Diefenbaker will be extremely annoyed, but one trusts he has more sense. If they are still there he should instantly call off the guards, also, which reportedly have been put round his official Ottawa residence to prevent the art gallery from securing its own property.

Perhaps more astonishing is the statement that the external affairs department, aware of the gallery's recall request, is preparing to buy its own collection. External action is part of this department's function but not surely in showing off wall pictures. If senior government officials want to create an impression of aesthetic importance they should do so from their own pockets; the public treasury is not designed to buttress such wasteful extravagance. Let them hang their own portraits on the walls, if need be. That would be in keeping with their official role.

The National Gallery has hitherto been handicapped because it has been unable to exhibit the collections acquired laboriously and often at public expense. Now that the space is available there should be no question about the return of paintings on loan. The canvasses belong to it, and their proper place is on the gallery walls, not the offices of government ministers.

Drive Safely Always

NATIONAL Safe Driving Week, ending officially tomorrow night, has produced in Victoria results which can be expressed only in the form of a question mark. Up to this moment there have been no traffic fatalities or serious injuries, and the general accident rate appears to be somewhat below average for this time of year. Whether or not this improvement can be attributed to the week-long emphasis on safe driving there is no positive way of knowing; but if it can be even in small degree—if one life has been saved or if one person escaped injury because of it—the special effort applied by the traffic authorities will have been worth while.

Early December is purposely chosen for Safe Driving Week on a national scale because weather, hours of darkness and the mood induced by the holidays combine to make December the year's most dangerous month for pedestrians, cyclists and motorists. The "week" is observed early in order to jog all three into awareness of the hazards awaiting them in the weeks to come.

Though Safe Driving Week may be almost ended officially, the need for care grows rather than diminishes. Already there is a marked seasonal increase in traffic density, accompanied by an air of excitement and impatience of delay which adds to the normal risks. Pedestrians in their hurry from one store to another are paying less attention to the traffic lights than they should, and motorists are apt to have eyes more for vacant parking space than for their driving. Obviously the safety principles preached during this special week need to be practiced not just now but all the time.

Interpreting the News

The Decision at Brussels

By DAVID ROWNTREE
Press Staff Writer

AN announcement from Brussels on Wednesday may have come just in time to forestall serious economic trouble in Western Europe.

The six-country European Common Market has agreed beginning Jan. 1 to lower customs by 10 per cent to all other members of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade. This, it is hoped, will bridge some of the differences, mainly between Great Britain and France, on how to make European trade easier and less complicated.

France is one of the six Common Market countries. They have agreed to charge a common tariff on goods coming in from outside countries; and at the same time lower duties and increase the volume of trade between themselves until in 12 years there are no restrictions.

Britain opposes this for two reasons: her exports to the Continent would be more expensive than similar goods made there; and if she did join, she would have to stop giving tariff advantages to the Commonwealth.

Britain suggested instead a free trade area. In this, member countries would lower duties between themselves but continue to charge what they wished to outsiders.

Neither side was able to persuade the other to give up its project.

Last month, France and West Germany rejected the free trade idea. They did leave room for future talks, and this now appears to have been enlarged by the concession to GATT members, including Canada.

Whether the Common Market will really result in freer trade has been questioned.

There have been questions, too, whether enough attention has been paid to the soundness of the six currencies. West Germany and The Netherlands are probably the most stable in this regard but the French franc is believed by some authorities to be overvalued.

Hoodlumism

In Mind And Dress

(From The Ottawa Journal)

THE tragic gang killing of an Ottawa youth has stirred the capital, and well it may. But too often civic conscience is stirred after an event. Reading of such happenings in the slum areas of New York, Ottawa residents usually adopted the attitude it could not happen here. But it has. And what to do about it?

There is no one remedy. But here are a few thoughts on the matter. Ban from TV the showing of crime thrillers which often affect simple minds. Only recently "The Naked City" depicted a New York adolescent gang killing which in some ways was similar to the Ottawa tragedy.

Put more policemen back on the beat. Older residents will recall how effective were the patrolmen familiar with their own districts and the trouble makers in their own areas. We recall how effective these policemen were in dealing with explosive situations before any real damage was caused. Patrol cars may be necessary in an expanding city but they can never take the place of the men on the beat.

The Ottawa high schools have done much to improve the dress of boys and girls by banning ridiculous hair cuts and that attire which a sloppy, unkempt element has assumed and which too easily degenerates into a badge of delinquency. School principals agree that this ban has done much to improve discipline and decorum in the schools. Why not extend that ban to a much wider area? Let all places of business, entertainment and recreation unite in banning this attire and makeup. It is not an infringement on juvenile rights to say that teenagers should wear sloppy clothes only when the situation calls for sloppy clothes.

Thought should be given to making available more centres of supervised recreation for young people. Too often, now, without adequate regional centres of entertainment where the boys and girls can let off some of their steam in good, clean sports or supervised dancing, they are driven to finding their own recreations. This would mean spending civic funds but we appear to be facing the need for such expense.

No matter what preventive measure may be taken the fault in largest measure lies with parents. Many parents have their children under only partial supervision and "go along" with misbehavior as the path of least resistance. Teachers, too, might take a more personal interest in some of the problem children in their classes, make it a point to become acquainted with the parents and the home life after school hours.

One may ask, too, whether churches have provided enough supervised entertainment for children, recognizing that all work and no play make the child susceptible to less desirable influences. Lacking such facilities too many of the young people turn to road houses and other places which should not be open to them and where they often become associated with influences too weighty for their young shoulders to bear.

The Journal repeats the suggestion it made in these columns on Monday: that the mayor should call a meeting of responsible leaders of all phases of civic life touching upon this subject: police, schools, churches, social services, parents' associations, and so on.

But the solution in the last analysis must arise in ourselves. Laxness, disrespect and slovenliness have become "smart" in youth, and only now are many adults realizing the simple truth of an old fashioned maxim: spare the rod and spoil the child.

Reports from Ottawa

FOR years people have been talking about the day, soon to dawn, when war will be waged by pushing buttons.

In a half-acre steel and concrete blockhouse at Stewart Air Force Base at Newburgh, N.Y., that day has arrived. This four-storey windowless structure contains the brain of the Boston Air Defence Sector, an area embracing the southern half of New England and extending hundreds of miles into the Atlantic—clipping across the southern tip of Nova Scotia in the process.

Out to sea it cuts across the "Moncton CADIZ", a map in the ops room shows. This is a line in axis with Moncton, N.B., delimiting an aircraft detection and identification zone within which an unidentified radar blip is cause for military action.

This blockhouse is the home of SAGE electronic computers like those our government has decided to install to help the RCAF protect the industrial heartland of southern Ontario and Quebec from enemy attack. SAGE, meaning "semi-automatic ground environment," is a huge and almost inconceivably complex mass of control consoles, electronic tubes (50,000 of them!), league upon league of wiring, and "magnetic memory drums" into which operators feed information to be "remembered."

SAGE is so smart you cannot tell it a successful lie. It automatically rejects incorrect information. What SAGE is told—the thousands of aircraft flight plans filed daily, weather reports, and the minute-to-minute scans of dozens of radar stations, radar patrol planes and radar picket ships—SAGE digests and correlates in seconds to produce an answer that a human mind would require half an hour to figure out. And in air defence even seconds are of the utmost importance.

The Packack

Bully-Boy Drivers

By GREGORY CLARK

THERE is a familiar type of motorist who is not happy unless he is outsmarting his fellow drivers. To him, driving is a sport, a game. What golfers get out of golf, bowlers out of bowling, what rugby and hockey players get out of bashing their gallant fellow sportsmen about, he gets out of ducking and dodging through traffic, jockeying for positions of vantage, beating all us dopes to the gun.

If you run up alongside one of these curious frustrates just after he has come up on your right, inside, at a stop light and jumped past you, to your alarm and chagrin, you will note the expression of deep satisfaction on his face, and his uplifted chest, as if he were an NHL star who had just scored a goal.

If you can keep abreast of him for a few minutes and then, at the first opportunity, calmly hold back to allow him, to permit him, to score another goal, such as halting so that he can come out around a parked car and thus get ahead of you, you have practically ruined his day. What you should have done to make him happy was to fight for position and if the action control officer decides, on the basis of SAGE's answer, that an unidentified plane should be intercepted by fighter aircraft, SAGE directs the interceptor pilot to his potential target. Then, if human decisions so dictate, SAGE fires the interceptor plane's weapons to bring down the aircraft which by then has been determined to be hostile.

And who would be the Billy Bishop, the Buzz Beurling, of this kind of war?—the passenger-called-pilot in the interceptor plane?—the action control officer in the concrete blockhouse?—or SAGE?

In the eerie half-darkness of the neon-lighted sections here where 400 radar and SAGE operators work you get a sobering insight into the problems—and the costs—of defence now and in the intercontinental ballistic missile era which is a dawning.

The U.S. is ringing itself with these $40,000,000 SAGE bases; Canada will have one or more.

Today SAGE's electronic brains think air defence against bombers; tomorrow against ICBMs flashing across the sky 800 miles up at 16,000 miles an hour.

Tomorrow SAGE will be asked to identify ICBMs amid a clutter of "space junk" that will be orbiting around the earth—all kinds of satellites, baby moons, expended rockets, derelict debris and probably enemy decoys.

SAGE will have to identify, calculate trajectories, altitudes, speeds and directions, and fire counter-missiles to intercept ICBMs out in space. No human brain can do this fast enough. Thus our civilization's survival will depend on the electronic gray matter of SAGE that can multiply six-digit numbers at a speed of up to 60,000 multiplications a second.

That is, unless politicians and people of East and West can reach a sufficient measure of agreement and mutual trust to enable us to beat our SAGEs and H-bombs into plowshares.

allow yourself to be forced to stop or else get side-swiped.

The word frustrates which I applied to them above is not mine. It is a policeman's.

"Of the eight of these bully-boys I have had to investigate," he told me, "as the result of several complaints, every one without exception was a phoney either in his job, his domestic setup or his social relations. When you see an ill-mannered driver in traffic, you are looking at a guy trying to make good in at least something!"

With the Classics

Shades of the prison-house begin to close
Upon the growing Boy,
But he beholds the light, and whence it flows,
He sees it in his joy:
The youth, who daily farther from the east
Must travel, still is Nature's priest,
Is on his way attended:
And by his vision splendid
At length the Man perceives it die away,
And fade into the light of common day.

Geneva Deadlock

More Soviet Propaganda

By W. N. EWER, from London

THE current deadlocks in two Geneva conferences—on the discontinuing of nuclear tests and on safeguards against "surprise attacks"—are disappointing. More so because they follow what had seemed the most hopeful event of the year—the agreement of Western and Soviet experts on the technical methods of control needed to ensure the carrying-out of an agreement to stop nuclear tests.

Both present conferences stem from that achievement. The British and American governments saw as the next step an agreement on the setting up of a control organization which could operate the technical methods already agreed on. It would cover such matters as the constitution of a control organization, international machinery, rules for action, facilities to be accorded to control staff, and so on. Once all is agreed, there could well be a permanent ban on tests. Meanwhile they were prepared to continue the suspension of tests while negotiations were going on, and as long as the Soviet government refrains from tests. At the same time they suggested the application of a similar technique to the problem of safeguards against surprise attacks; starting, in this case also, with an expert examination of technical problems.

But it has become woefully clear that the Russians, though accepting the proposals for the meetings, have entirely different ideas as to their purpose.

Hence the deadlock. There is widespread impression that it has been brought about by pedantic differences about the precise wording of agenda; whether over tests there should be one agreement or two; whether related subjects should be discussed simultaneously or in sequence. And there has been an attempt to create the belief that in all this the Western Powers have been more pedantic and less conciliatory than the Russians.

But these agenda disputes are directly related to the real differences, which are fundamental.

I take the test conference first. Here the Soviet position, though slightly modified in form, has remained unchanged in essence. It is that the three "nuclear powers"—U.S., Britain and Russia—should solemnly undertake to stop all tests of atomic or hydrogen weapons forever. At the same time they would agree to "set up control machinery" with "a network of control posts on their territories" and "taking due account of the Geneva meeting of experts."

The first would be, from the moment of signature, binding, permanent and irrevocable. The second would merely commit the three to the principle of control, leaving agreement on the system of control for later negotiations—which, experience warns us, might never succeed. In that case the result would be an obligation to end all testing, without the establishment of any control system whatever.

The Anglo-American thesis is that tests should be suspended at once. This suspension would become a permanent renunciation as soon as an effective control system had been agreed on and established. But the Soviet government will not even consider this. It wants renunciation without any real assurance that there will ever be control. The gap seems at the moment unbridgeable.

In the second conference—precautions against surprise attacks—the object as understood by the Western powers is to work out the technical problems involved as the first Geneva experts' conference did in the case of nuclear tests.

But the Soviet group refuses to do this. Instead they have tabled a series of topics for discussion which sound like agenda for a disarmament conference. They want the conference—which is one of experts and technicians—to discuss questions like the abolition of nuclear weapons, the reduction of armed forces, limitation of conventional armaments, liquidation of all military bases outside territories.

All of which, however arguable, is completely outside the scope of a meeting of technical experts and beyond their competence to deal with. But, again, the Soviet group seems unwilling to deal seriously with the problems which the conference was supposed to consider, and insists on raising wider and essentially political issues. I find it hard to resist the conclusion that their objective is propaganda rather than agreement.

But that is the situation. There is deadlock not because of any differences about procedure or agenda; but because, in each case the Soviet side appears, for whatever reason, determined to change the whole character of the conference, and to prevent it from getting down to the practical problems which it was supposedly called to discuss.

Letters to the Editor

Mutual Sharing

As the one principally responsible, through the Chamber of Commerce, for the 1956 report on amalgamation by the Citizens Research Institute of Canada, which report could possibly have sparked the more detailed Deutsch report, my views on this question may be of interest.

I call myself a Victorian, as do the people who reside in Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt if they are asked where they come from.

What a pity our founding fathers did not open their dividers a few more inches when they placed one point on the city hall and drew a three-mile semi-circle designating the boundaries of Victoria.

In 1955, in connection with the Chamber of Commerce report mentioned above, I corresponded with cities such as Hamilton, London, and Kingston which had undergone amalgamation some five to 15 years previously. Toronto was then in the process of a partial amalgamation with, as is usual in such matters, some violent opposition. My correspondence took me also to several cities in the U.S. and as far away as England.

I was seeking "before and after" opinions which I thought might be useful. In every case I found that while strong objections were quite common before, there was no case of any desire or agitation after amalgamation to return to the divided method. In two instances, cities were further extending boundaries. In other words, there was opposition before and no evidence of discontent afterwards.

I resent the continued implication by some correspondents to your paper that Victoria, simply because it has always underwritten projects on which the surrounding municipalities immediately suckle, has an axe to grind.

Victoria can look forward to being pretty well out of debt in 10 to 15 years. Our services are in and working. In many respects, I couldn't care less if Saanich joined us or not. However, I like to think of myself as a Victorian in the more liberal sense. I am willing to underwrite a further effort to provide information as to how joining with Saanich will affect me dollarwise; then I can decide whether it is worth while or not.

If part of the final report is surmise, as it is bound to be, I may be willing to take a chance. At least I will have sufficient information to make an intelligent decision.

Without considering material matters, my concern extends beyond the three-mile confines of Victoria. Our problems are mutual and should be shared mutually. I can see, I hope, over my back fence, which is more than some Victorians (10-mile circle) appear able to do.

Surely none of us can be hurt by obtaining further information; therefore I urge all citizens to give their councils the authority to do just this.

Happy Ending

The story of the shooting episode in the old Poodle Dog Cafe, in the Sunday Islander, was not complete. Had the writer known all the facts, he might not have ended the story with such sour and unfair reflections, for it had a happy ending.

The grocery clerk married his old-time sweetheart and they went to Fairbanks, Alaska, where he became a grocer and fur-buyer. He had a genial and likeable personality and became popular and successful. He and his wife retired to California, where he died many years ago.

In March, 1912, I met the sealing captain or sealer in the faraway post of Takotna, near the headwaters of the Kuskokwim River which flows into the Behring Sea. He had a roadhouse or hotel and trading post and with his wife and two children seemed quite happy.

Both families were friendly and no doubt had a laugh over the follies of youth.

Needless Loan

It is interesting to note that Premier Bennett, when denying Mr. Briggs' charges that the government is going to refinance the B.C. Power Commission with funds from government agencies, curiously did not mention sinking funds.

Mr. Bennett has admitted that there will be some refinancing of the B.C. Power Commission. When asked, by myself, at the recent Victoria College gathering: "In view of the fact that bond interest rates have gone up, how can any refinancing of the B.C. Power Commission not help but to cost more money?" Mr. Bennett replied: "We are going to use government sinking funds to refinance the Power Commission."

In other words, Mr. Bennett is getting rid of B.C. Power Commission bonds which the government was fortunate in getting at 3.1 per cent and is loaning the Power Commission new money to replace this at 3.1 per cent out of sinking funds. He therefore is able to say that this refinancing will not cost the Power Commission "one penny more."

However, with this money he is needlessly loaning the commission out of sinking funds at 3.1 per cent he could be getting 5.1 per cent on the open market. On $28,000,000, this loss of interest money could cost the taxpayers of B.C. $560,000 a year.

I sincerely hope that this fact is brought before the Simon royal commission.

Courageous Students

I would like to express the opinion that the "disgusting" behavior of the students during Mr. Bennett's recent visit to the college was nothing more nor less than a direct reflection of the attitudes sustained in their homes.

If our freedom to fight even to the death for the things we solidly believe in, in our own country, is to be shackled by "disgusted" people who prefer a thin veneer of respectability to cover the rotten wood, then what difference, in actual basic principles, have we from those under the rule of the hammer and sickle?

I, for one, feel very secure in the knowledge that the future of our country will one day be in the hands of these young people of honesty and courage.

Out of Step

With all due respect to Councillor L. Passmore and his sincerity for the welfare of Saanich municipality, his outlook against amalgamation is not in keeping with the immense progress and rapid changes that have taken place in recent years within the municipality.

Chicago Says Goodbye

87 Children Buried

CHICAGO (UPI) — The children of Our Lady of the Angels, happy youngsters who looked up from their school desks into the face of death, were buried yesterday.

On a cold, bright day when children should be dreaming of Christmas, the heartsick city of Chicago said goodbye to the 87 innocents who died with three nuns in the smoke and flames which swept the parochial school Monday.

Chicago's Archbishop Albert G. Meyer, assisted by Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York, celebrated a solemn requiem mass at a National Guard armory for 27 of the children.

Three nuns and five of the children were buried Thursday. The heartbroken parents of other children preferred to hold private services in parish churches dotted throughout the city's north and west sides.

Trespass Brings Fines

Two men caught hunting near the Rocky Point arsenal were fined $50 each in Colwood police court yesterday.

They were Frank Page, of 842 Selkirk, and Hugh Thomson, of 661 Beacon, who appeared on charges of trespassing on national defence property.

John Brennan, 732 Yates, was fined $10 and $3 costs for not having a firearms licence.

Catholics To Open School

Scores of Roman Catholic families are expected to attend the opening tomorrow of their $300,000 parochial school on Trent Street.

The newly-expanded building will be blessed by Rt. Rev. James M. Hill, Bishop of Victoria.

The school, St. Patrick's, began teaching Catholic and some Protestant children in 1955 in a four-room building.

Attendance has grown from 54 to 395 pupils in three years, forcing addition of six classrooms, an auditorium and stage, a play-lunch room and first aid rooms.

Clifton, Kelly Re-Elected

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — Robert P. Clifton of the Comox Indian band was returned to office as president of the Native Brotherhood of B.C. Thursday afternoon as the brotherhood wound up its three-day convention here.

Dr. Peter R. Kelly of Nanaimo was re-elected by acclamation as chairman of the brotherhood's legislative committee.

The Native Brotherhood voted Thursday in favor of asking the provincial government for full liquor privileges.

Lengthy debate between those delegates who wished equal drinking rights with whites and those who sought plebiscites in each village, took up most of the final session.

No, she didn't have to sell the car

When a man dies, his widow is confronted with the responsibility of looking after the family. There are so many necessary expenses . . . so many good things she's used to, like the family car.

This widow didn't have to sell the car. Her husband took a realistic approach to life insurance protection. He carried enough to cover any eventualities.

Carrying such protection is not a burden when you select the company that offers family protection at low net cost. That's The Mutual Life of Canada — the company with the outstanding dividend record.

Voice of One

Man's Main Concern Is the Life Within Him

REV. DR. FRANK S. MORLEY

It does not surprise a Western mind when Prime Minister Diefenbaker takes off on a trip around the world. We expect that sort of activity from our public men. We would be astonished, however, if we read of the prime minister taking a whole month off for disciplined meditation.

Yet that is exactly what Mr. L. N. Prime Minister of Burma did. As a devout Buddhist, he has made this a life-time practice. To this disciplined meditation he attributes his serenity of mind.

Doubtless his remarkably radiant personality also is generated by the same interior power. He reminds us of Gandhi who spoke so often of "Satyagraha," usually translated "non-violence," but much more adequately translated as "soul force."

Rev. Roy Melville Funeral Monday

Rev. Roy Melville, 65, rector of Sidney and North Saanich Anglican churches for the past 12 years, died Thursday night at the rectory in Sidney.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p.m. Monday from St. Andrew's Anglican Church in Sidney. Most Rev. Harold E. Sexton, Archbishop of B.C., will officiate, assisted by Rev. Hywel J. Jones. Cremation will follow.

Mr. Melville was pastor of St. Andrew's in Sidney, Holy Trinity Church at Patricia Bay and St. Augustine Church at Deep Cove, and padre of the Saanich Peninsula Legion Branch, at the time of his death.

He was born in Toronto, and served in both World Wars. He served as a chaplain in the Second World War.

Surviving are his widow, Hilda, at home; two sons, Terry, at UBC, and Wallace, at Kitimat; two grandchildren; and two brothers and a sister in Toronto.

Herbert Kent, 96 Dies in Hospital

with his death an epoch in the musical life of the city reaches a finale.

He was the last surviving member of the original Arion men's choir, founded in 1892. Token of his staunchness and his devotion to music is the fact he retired from active participation in the choir at the age of 92, after complaining half-humorously his breathing and control were "not what they used to be."

Veteran members of the famous singing group were making arrangements to sing at his funeral services.

IRON CHURCH
As a boy of 10 young Kent got his first job in Victoria at the old St. John's "Iron Church" that stood on the site of the present Hudson's Bay Co. store.

He and another boy were employed to light fires and gas lamps and pump the organ.

He was married to pretty young Miss Georgina Waitt in the same church in 1886, and later that year took charge of his father-in-law's music store, the start actually of the history of Kent's Music Store.

SINGER, ACTOR, MUSICIAN
In 1881 at the age of 19 he made the first of hundreds of concert and entertainment appearances in Victoria as singer, actor, musician, director and conductor.

He served during the busy years as choirmaster at St. John's, at Christ Church Cathedral from 1887 to 1895. He had leading roles in a number of operas and operettas, some like "The Mikado" in 1894 presented for the first time in the city.

At his death he was believed to be the oldest regular subscriber to the Colonist with a record of close to 80 years' subscription, he also was once on its staff, writing a column "Do You Remember?"—and he was a man with memories for some 18 months.

He is survived by three sons, Darlyn Kent in Vancouver, Col. M. Aubrey Kent in Victoria and C. Turesdell Kent in Seattle, and one daughter, Mrs. Marjorie Davies of Victoria.

Jeune Rites Set Today

Funeral services for Walter P. Jeune, 74, who died Thursday, will be held at 3 p.m. today from Christ Church Cathedral, with Rev. Thomas Bailey of St. Barnabas' Church officiating.

Jammed Hospitals Turn Many Away

Shortage of beds and rooms been more congested this week at Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals is even more critical now than a month ago, hospital officials said yesterday.

Emergency cases are fitted in somehow, but other patients seeking hospital treatment are being turned away.

"It's changed from bad to worse," said a spokesman for Royal Jubilee Hospital. "We've

A new $100,000 contract of large steel alloy high-pressure heat exchangers built for the Imperial Oil refinery at Calgary and the Shell Oil refinery at Vancouver.

The contract is for the main exchanger at the 200,000 b.p.d. Company's sulphur recovery plant at Pincher Creek, Alta.

The tower will weigh 110 tons and is 90 feet high. It will be shipped on three flat cars to Alberta. The contract also calls for a 50-ton auxiliary tower for the same plant.

The contract marks the first time such a job has been tackled by a B.C. engineering firm.

Gorge Park Gets $4,000 Subsidy

The federal government will subsidize clearing work at Kinsman-Gorge Park up to $4,000, John McIlree, past president of Victoria Kinsmen Club, said last night.

Another $4,000 will be contributed by the club, through Esquimalt council. The federal grant is made under the government's scheme to encourage winter employment.

Cougars Lose Overtime Game Despite Ford's Two Markers

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

On the latest list of questions submitted to sports editors at each year's end by the Canadian Press is "Do you agree with unlimited importation of American players for Canadian professional football?"

The answer here is certainly a positive "No." Although I do find the American professional game superior to the Canadian game, unlimited importation of American players would not now or in the foreseeable future give us the same calibre of football as that being played in the National Football League. But it would destroy the Canadian game at the junior and intermediate level and eventually leave us with a second-rate American game in place of the fine game we now have, a game which attendance figures show is popular with Canadians and a game that is uniquely Canadian.

Proponents of unlimited importation, chiefly to be found in Vancouver and Montreal, maintain that such a move would not only result in a better calibre of football but would also effect a considerable saving in player salaries.

They argue that Canadian players are demanding, and getting, far more than they are worth because the good ones aren't too plentiful and, therefore, in a good bargaining position. Unlimited importation, they say, would create so much competition for jobs that clubs would be able to sign good American players for less than they are paying for Canadian talent of lesser abilities.

Some of it sounds quite plausible but better football for less money would be quite an accomplishment. What it boils down to is that the two or three clubs financially ahead of the others because of larger parks and greater fan potential would like to get away from the bother of producing or finding Canadian talent for the easy method of signing ready-made players from U.S. colleges.

To think that U.S. college players would come cheaper than Canadian players is supposing a lot. True, there are enough good players left over to go around after the National Football League clubs have skimmed off the cream of the crop but Canadian clubs would have to offer enough to make it worth while for a player to stay in football in preference to taking a more permanent job with a more solid future. That would certainly have to be enough to satisfy the average Canadian. The fellows such as Normie Kwong and Gerry James are worth as much as an import star.

As for unlimited importation improving Canadian football, this could possibly be true, but only in a technical sense. For this observer at least, better football would only mean better fan fare, and there is no assurance that a team of 25 Americans would give us a more entertaining game than 12 Americans and 16 Canadians do now.

All of this is relatively unimportant. What really matters is that unlimited importation might do to Canadian football in other parts of Canada than the nine cities with big-time professional clubs. It would eventually wreck it, that's what it would do.

Allowed to import without restraint, these nine clubs would almost certainly withdraw their encouragement and financial support of junior and intermediate football. Perhaps these leagues could carry on without it but gone is the incentive for the young Canadian player. No longer would he ever have much hope of getting to the top unless he was exceptionally gifted and youngsters without a real goal in one sport will soon turn to another.

To prevent that we should keep Canadian football the way it is with the Canadian player at least on equal terms with the import—and ignore the bleats from Vancouver and Montreal that their fans deserve the best. On that score, one can point out that Montreal has won the Grey Cup only once since 1931 and that Vancouver has yet failed to come close to giving its fans the best football in Canada.

There isn't much wrong with our game as it is today. Just ask anyone who saw Saturday's Grey Cup game. I don't know about you but while I admired the exploits of Jim Van Pelt, Kenny Ploen, Herb Gray, Bernie Faloney and many of the other imports, there was thrill and satisfaction in the play of Norm Rauhaus, Gordie Rowland, Steve Patrick, Ron Howell, Harry Lammman, Ed Kolowich, Roger Savoie and other homebrews. Not many of them would have had a chance to star Saturday if our rules didn't limit the number of imports.

GUESSING DEPARTMENT: Winnipeg, New Westminster, Calgary and Saskatoon in tonight's WHL play, Montreal, Boston and Chicago in the NHL, the East in the Shrine football game. Batting average to date: At bat 102, hits 70, percentage .686.

Wheaton Wins Again

GOETTINGEN, West Germany—Led by Victoria's Bob Wheaton and Margaret Iwakaki of Vancouver, the Memorial Aquatic Club of Etobicoke, Ont., defeated a Goettingen team in an indoor meet Thursday night.

Wheaton won the men's 100-metre backstroke in the time of 1:05.5.

In the 100-metre women's butterfly event, Miss Iwakaki took first place with a time of 1:14.2. She also was first in 1:07.7 in the 100-metre woman's free style.

RUSSIANS BEATEN

NOTTINGHAM, England—Nottingham Panthers scored the winning goal two minutes from time Friday night to defeat Russia's national hockey team 4-3.

EDMONTON—Victoria Cougars' bid for a second straight victory on their current road trip fell short last night as Edmonton Flyers squeezed out a 5-4 overtime victory before 3,149 Western Hockey League fans.

Centre Jerry Meinyk fired a 15-foot shot past goaltender Marcel Pelletier after nearly two minutes of overtime to give the eastern division-leading Flyers the two points.

George Ford had sent the game into overtime when he scored his second goal of the game with just over two minutes remaining. It was Ford's second successive two-goal performance and gave the right

Canucks Romp Over Royals, 8-0

VANCOUVER — Rookie goalie Bruce Gamble maintained his season-long jinx against New Westminster here last night, and Vancouver Canucks romped past the last-place Royals, 8-0, to move into second place in the western division of the Western Hockey League.

Gamble blocked 24 shots to collect his fourth shutout of the season. Three of the shutouts have come at the expense of the Royals, dropping further out of the league race with each passing game.

ROOKIE NIGHT

It was also rookie night for the Canucks in the scoring department. Gary Blain scored twice, Wally Chevrier got the first goal of his professional career, and Walt Peacock, Ted Hampson and Dan Bellise each scored once. Kent Douglas and Alex Kuzma got the other goals.

Canucks were slow to get started as a series of icing calls kept the pace at a crawl. Kuzma who has been going well with the Canucks since being traded by Seattle to teams, opened scoring at 13:08 of the first period.

Blaine, Bellise and Hampson scored in the second period, and the Canucks coasted in from there. Chevrier got his goal with a hard drive less than three minutes before the final whistle.

Canucks now hold a two-point edge over Victoria Cougars, and trail the league-leading Seattle Totems by four points.

Mel Chapman Posts Upset Over Hurd

Mel Chapman scored an upset victory over first-seeded Harvey Hurd last night to advance to the men's open singles final of the Victoria Racquets Club handicap badminton tournament.

Chapman, downed the former Canadian junior champion, 15-7, 15-10, 15-15, and will meet second-seeded Bob Hunt in tonight's final. Hunt, an ex-city singles king, beat Reidner Getz, 15-6, 15-10.

The other big upset of the night's play came in the mixed doubles, where Elsie Cooley and Dunc Tolson toppled first-seeded Clare King and Ed Hedley, 15-11, 7-15, 18-14. Sharon Whitaker and Jimmy Wells defeated Rene Wells and Eric Hibberson, 6-15, 17-16, 15-5.

In ladies' singles play, Miss Whitaker defeated Jean Massey, 11-1, 11-3, and Bev Anderson edged Jill Kelly, 4-11, 11-2, 11-9.

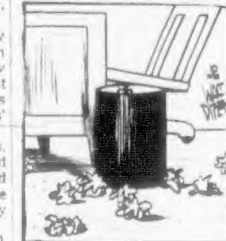

Clare King and Jill Kelly beat Elsie Cooley and Joan Rothe 15-11, 15-3, and Bev Anderson and Marilyn Bassett defeated Rene Wells and Miss Whitaker, 15-6, 15-6, in ladies' doubles semi-finals.

In men's doubles semi-finals, Eric Hibberson and Stu Reidner downed Ron Simmons and Dunc Tolson, 15-13, 15-7, while Wells and Hurd beat Hedley and Hunt, 10-15, 18-16.

Finals start tonight at 7:30.

Durelle-Moore Fight Seen on TV After All

MONTREAL—A spokesman for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation announced last night that the Yvonne Durelle-Archie Moore fight heavyweight championship fight here on Dec. 10 will be televised in Canada over a national network. It previously had been announced the fight would not be seen.

Montreal and Sherbrooke however, will be blacked out. The spokesman said negotiations between the CBC and the International Boxing Club in New York were completed at 5:00 p.m. (EST).

One of Akins' Few Good Blows

Looking like anything but a foser, former welterweight champion Virgil Akins lets go with a sweeping right from the floor in the second round of last night's title fight against Don

Jordan in Los Angeles. However, this was one of the few times Akins got unlimbered, and Jordan went on to win the title with upset unanimous decision—(AP Photofax.)

Under-Rated Don Jordan Wins Welterweight Crown

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Under-rated Don Jordan of Los Angeles captured the welterweight championship of the world Friday night as he handed champion Virgil

Akins of St. Louis a bad beating to win a 15-round decision. The 24-year-old challenger, a 3-to-1 underdog going into the ring at the Olympic Auditorium despite his rating as the No. 1 contender, all but knocked out the 30-year-old titleholder. He won the unanimous verdict by a substantial margin.

This was the first defence of the crown by Akins since he won clear claim to it in knocking out Vince Martinez in St. Louis last June.

After the first few rounds of the televised fight it was apparent that Akins was in for a rough evening.

EVEN MONEY

Akins was an even money favorite to knock out Jordan, something no other fighter had done in the Californian's 55 previous fights. The 30-year-old Akins was the one who was hanging on and all but wrecked in the 10th.

As it turned out, Jordan never was seriously hurt and Akins managed to stay on his feet for the full 15. An estimated 7,000 fans cheered the local youngster from bell to bell.

Referee Lee Grossman scored it 145-138, judge Mushy Callahan 145-132, and judge Tommy Hart 146-136. The Associated Press had it 150-132. Scoring was 10 points a round—10 to the winner and 0 or less to the loser.

Jordan weighed 145, Akins 145½.

CHAMPION BOOED

The champion was continually booed for butting, which cost him two points on the referee's card. But it was Akins who was the worst hurt. Jordan ripped a bad gash over the champion's right eye in the fifth and had it battered and swollen almost shut at the finish.

The crowd was 7,344 and the gross $28,548.

Victoria Case Studied Sunday...

Chances Good for City Soccer Entry

By GARTH WILTON

Victoria Soccer officials, who learn the fate of their bid for a franchise in the Pacific Coast Soccer League Sunday, were imbued with an optimistic outlook today.

Foremost reason for their optimism is that they are confident their application will be accepted by the league.

Also, they feel that if they do get a franchise—Victoria has the two necessary prerequisites to make the venture successful—players of Pacific Coast League calibre and adequate fan support.

If a Victoria entry is accepted by the league, the team has been assured of a sponsor, solving most of the proposed team's financial worries for the present.

It is expected that the league, comprised last year of Nanaimo, New Westminster, Royals, Carling, Haleson and St. Andrews, will accept only one team from Vancouver Island.

Nanaimo, which had considerable difficulty in obtaining both players and fan support last year, may not find too many of the other league teams supporting its application, according to local officials. The Nanaimo club had a one-year conditional franchise last year and it must be renewed.

"We feel certain that the league is going to give us a franchise," Ed Viggers, president of the Victoria and District Football League said last night. "Nanaimo had to rely on Victoria players last year and still had a bad year. It's doubtful if the league will want to take another chance on them this year."

Nanaimo's entry in the Victoria and District Football League had to fold. Viggers pointed out, but the Victoria teams have been "receiving good support all year."

"Most other sports events were cancelled when the Grey Cup game was played," he said, "but we went ahead with our scheduled game and drew a good crowd."

Confidence is also the key-note when talk turns to fielding a team capable of holding its own in the Pacific Coast League.

"A combination of experienced players from Esquimalt and our outstanding local youngsters should give us a top-notch club," Viggers said.

It is expected Gopi Stewart, coach of the Nanaimo entry last year, will line up with the proposed Victoria club if Nanaimo is dropped by the league. A 29-year-old inside forward, Stewart has played with Everton Reserves, New Westminster Royals of the coast league and the B.C. All-Stars.

Two of Stewart's teammates with Hanes, Joe Hillhouse and Joe Robbins, also played with Nanaimo last year.

Tom Drueck, of lacrosse fame, and Pete Moran of the Esquimalt club, both have played with mainland clubs in the Pacific Coast League, while George Paul, also with Esquimalt, played for Nanaimo last year and previously was with Mission City of the Vancouver second division.

Volker Stoldt, a 19-year-old from Germany; Antol Major, who played in Hungary and for Nanaimo last year; Theo Koenig, who played with the Canadian army and with Haleson for two years, and Dick Nellstijn, who learned his soccer in Holland are Victoria Kickers best prospects.

George Guckel, who played amateur soccer in Glasgow, Henry Vanderhorst, who played professional in Holland, and Don Hughes, who played for Leeds United reserves are Brodies top threats.

A member of the Nanaimo club last season Bill Ackin, who scored 47 goals in the Victoria and District League last year, is one of the big reasons Canadian Scottish is leading the local league.

He gets able support from Ron Jenkins, Bernie Tyson, Ernie Brown and Taffy Jones, all of whom played in Britain before coming to Canada.

Gorge Hotel will have a bevy of outstanding local players to offer. Among them are Bill Hope, Bill Bamford, Harold Holroyd, Bill Abbott and two youngsters just out of junior ranks, Jerry Booth and Robin Barnes.

Tim Walker and Coe Robb, both with Nanaimo last year, are Tillcum's top performers.

Heaney's Grant Johnstone, Archie McMillan of Gorge Hotel, and 18-year-old Brian Lindsay of Brodies are all candidates for the goalkeeper's job.

Today's Shrine Game Ends Football Season

HAMILTON (CP)—Canada's 1958 football season bows out today when the stars of the east and west clash at Hamilton's Civic Stadium in their fourth annual Shrine encounter.

A crowd of more than 15,000 is expected to watch the battle for east-west football supremacy, to which the west already has staked a large claim with a 35-28 win in last Saturday's Grey Cup.

The game will be seen on television channels 2 and 6 at 9:30 a.m.

Many of the stars of that Winnipeg-Hamilton thriller will be at it again in today's game—one of the many drawing cards that has promised to make the contest much more than just an exhibition game. The Hamilton players are still smarting from their Grey

"grudge" has been mentioned more than once in connection with the Shrine game.

WEST BEST CLAIM

The west has whipped the Big Four eastern champions in four of the last five Grey Cups and hopes to hammer home its claim that football teams are "best in the west."

Another drawing card is the fact that six import quarterbacks, the cream of the Big Four and Western Interprovincial Football Unions, will see action in the game.

They are Sam Etcheverry, Montreal Alouettes; Bernie

Jackie Parker, Edmonton Eskimos; Frank Tripucka, Saskatchewan Roughriders; Jim Van Pelt and Kenny Ploen, Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

TEAMS IN SHAPE

Both teams are reported in good shape. Hamilton coach Jim Trimble has held chalk talks for his eastern squad and whipped them through strenuous workouts. He may have to go without Boyd Carter, speedy backfielder from Toronto-Argonauts, who crashed into a goal post Thursday during a practice session.

West coach Bud Grant of Winnipeg put his charges through a light workout on Friday. He has the devastating Parker, Canada's footballer of the year, Grey Cup hero Van Pelt, passing wizard Tripucka, and Ploen, the 1957 Grey Cup quarterback, to alternate in the pivot spot.

Here are few of eastern touchdown terrors playing in Shrine Game today at Hamilton. Top to bottom, Bernie Faloney, Pat Abbruzzi, Dick Shattom, Ron Howell and Bill Bewley.

His Game Real Tame

HUDSON, N.H. (UPI)—Police Chief Andrew Polak, seeking his 27th deer in 27 years, vainly hunted four weekends in northern New Hampshire counties this season. Yesterday Polak stepped into the woods near his house and immediately downed a 10-point, 190-pound buck.

Will Pick Own Assistants

Robinson Takes Lions' Job

HAMILTON (CP)—Wayne Robinson, assistant coach of the Grey Cup champion Winnipeg Blue Bombers, said Friday he has accepted an offer to coach British Columbia Lions of the Western Football Conference. Robinson, in Hamilton as assistant coach of the West all-star team, said he will go to Vancouver as soon as possible after Saturday's East-West Shrine game.

Robinson said he is "very happy" with his new job but a little sad to be leaving the Blue Bombers.

"My two years in Winnipeg were very happy indeed," he said. "I like Winnipeg, its people. I feel I can do as well out in Vancouver as there."

Robinson said he has "no plans yet" for the Lions. "I'll get out there first, look things over and start some place."

Directors of the Lions voted Thursday night to accept an executive recommendation to go after Robinson.

Contract details were not disclosed. Robinson, however, will be given a five hand to select two assistants, but has not yet done so.

Robinson is the third coach in less than two years for the Lions, who finished in the league cellar this season with a 4-13 won-lost record.

Robinson, an all-pro in the National Football League with Philadelphia Eagles in 1954-55-56, joined the Bombers in 1957.

His acceptance of the Vancouver job has been cleared by Winnipeg officials, who had given Lions permission to talk to him seven weeks ago. Lions officials telephoned Robinson Thursday night with the offer.

Young Five-Pinners Helped By United Church League

BY JIM TAYLOR

Bowling's youth movement, which has received a great deal of support in this area over the past few years, is getting another shot in the arm from a city Sunday School group.

Each Saturday 30 members of the First United Church group compete at Gibson's Bowladrome in a fivepin league so successful that plans are being formulated for expansion to an inter-church league.

Guiding force behind the league is Thomas Harker, who started it last year with 10 members. Now he wants to expand the operation. To do it he needs only two things—interested church groups and a little help.

"All these kids (age 9-12) enjoy themselves," Harker says. "And I think we could really get something going with an inter-church league patterned after the Sunday School Basketball League."

Anyone interested in forming a league at his church, or in helping out with this one, is invited to phone Harker at EV-3-8773.

Lloyd Chow rolled a 620 series Tuesday to set the pace for the red-hot senior tenpin league at Gibson's Bowladrome, starting off with 203 and 230.

Two teams in the league enjoyed exceptionally good nights. Gil Wong, 574 (227), Rich Lou, 549 (215), Don Shaw, 571 (203), Chuck Bennett, 612 (215-216), and Jack Lim, 581 (235), combined for a 2,890 three-game series for Manufacturer's Life.

Suncoasters were not far off the pace, firing a 2,824. Team members were Harold Paulding, 544 (211), Charlie Cowie, 572 (249), Bob Bystedt, 583 (233, 200), Jack Mowbray, 561, and Roy Begg, 564 (212).

Other high scorers in senior competition were Will Johnston, 597 (208, 230); A. McKeachie, 584 (212); Nick Howard, 577 (212); Wilbur Webb, 576 (212); George Motion, 557 (209); Ron Wilson, 552 (201); Ted Bowcott, 549; Lew Kamann, 558 (221); Bruce McDermid, 555, and Len Parson, 541 (214).

Don Shaw posted a 600 series to lead commercial action at Gibson's, followed by Wilbur Webb, 595 (214, 222); Bill Coates, 582 (213); E. Simmons, 582 (213); G. Myers, 563 (210, 212); Roy Begg, 580 (216), and Lloyd Chow, 535 (209).

Len Murrant 611 (245, 213); Bill Holness, 585 (201, 202), and Bill Coates, 586 (205), were top men in the mixed leagues. Gladys Cornthwaite led the ladies with 501 and E. Olivier was tops in the Sunday league with 546. Bill Pearce had 545 in the Colonist Nite-side league.

Dick Donaldson was high teenager at 606 (246). Other high scorers were Jack Fletcher, 564; Rocky Maysmith, 556 (205, 200); Ray Bussey, 555, and George Harris, 543. Harris, incidentally, rolled a fine 263 single last week that was mistakenly credited to Charlie Marks.

Gibson's Bowladrome will hold a men's and mixed doubles tenpin tournament Dec. 24 to Jan. 4 with a guaranteed first prize of $100 in each event and a $1,000 offer for a perfect game.

Scratch score in the handicapped tourney is 180 for men and 160 for women, with a two-thirds handicap.

Vic High Soccerists Take On Vancouver

Victoria High School's senior soccer team travels to Vancouver this afternoon in quest of the B.C. high school championship.

The Vics, undefeated in league and city playoff competition this season, meet King Edward High School of Vancouver in a sudden-death final. The same two teams were scheduled to play last year, but King Ed defaulted and the trophy was withdrawn from competition for one year.

Coach Harry Runer listed Vic High's team last night. Barry Sadler will be in goal, with Jim Hawthorne and Dave Rees at fullback and Tom Wyatt, Dave Dawson and Dave Collett on the half line.

Starting forward line will have Robin Barnes at centre, Alan Glenn and Tom Collett at the inside positions, and Jim Peters and Don Elphick on the wings. Reserves will be Alec Lacey and Bill Mundie.

Forget-Me-Not Posy Where Daddy Died

LONDON (AP) — A little girl walked out of the swirling fog on the station at suburban Lewisham Thursday. She stood along the platform which one year ago was a mass of wreckage.

Three crowded trains piled up in dense fog.

The little girl wandered in to the cold, deserted waiting room. A year before that room had been used as a morgue.

For some of the 90 people killed in the crash.

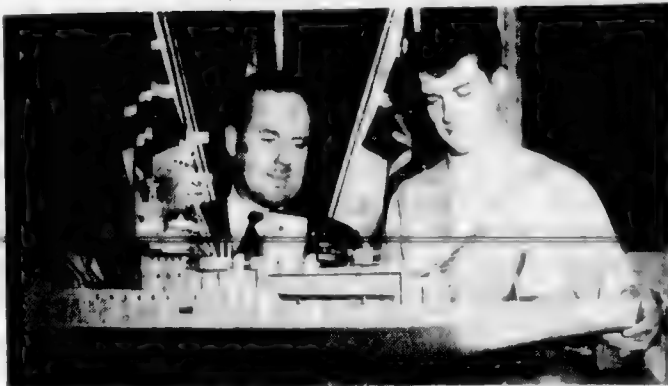

The tiny figure stood there for a few moments in silence. Then she turned, walked out of the station and disappeared.

Her father said he never saw her before.

But at 6:20 p.m. the time of the crash the year before, the station staff found a small posy of purple forget-me-nots on the bare wood table of the deserted waiting room.

A black-bordered card said simply:

"Dear Daddy I miss you very much. Love, Wendy."

Work of 14 Months

Scale model of a guided missile ship is attracting considerable interest in the windows of the RCN recruiting offices on Government Street. Made of eight-inch plywood, the model was built in 14 months by 15-year-old

Keith Eric Gray of 565 Hampshire Road. Young hobbyist, right, looks over the model with CPO Alexander P. Allen, in charge of the recruiting centre. — (RCN photo.)

Kids' Parties, Lighting, Talking Car

Busy Time for Jaycees

With Christmas drawing nigh, Victoria Jaycees are working hard on five seasonal projects.

At 10 a.m. today a group of Jaycees will head the annual Nativity Scene display on the lawn of the Royal Jubilee Hospital. The display will be lighted at night.

Next Saturday Jaycees will be hosts to 52 children nominated by the welfare department. It is a party to be held between 2 and 4 p.m. in the Naval Veterans Hall, Broad Street.

Again this year the Jaycees are providing a "talking" police car from Dec. 17 to 24 with a Jaycee driver and a city traffic policeman on a public address system to advise Christmas shoppers to take care.

Children of Jaycees will attend a sound Christmas party Dec. 21 at Cascade Legion Hall. This being attended by the Jaycees, under the leadership of Mrs. A. Dames, president of the women's auxiliary.

Prizes for the annual Jaycee Christmas lighting contest, Dec. 20, will be given to the appliances $500 worth of them.

The four sections of the contest are for company decorated houses, decorated windows or doors, best depiction of a Christmas message and a special section for persons who have never taken part in the contest before.

Entry forms may be obtained from the Junior Chamber of Commerce office, 510 Wharf Street, telephone 47421. Prizes close about Friday afternoon.

Careless Driving Invalid?

Drivers May Face Negligence Count

British Columbia motorists who are picked up by police for driving infractions, for the next 10 days at least, may be faced with the more serious charge of criminal negligence under the Criminal Code of Canada rather than the less serious careless driving charge under the B.C. Motor Vehicle Act.

Attorney General Robert Bennett yesterday issued a statement announcing that the government is considering a change in the law to make it possible to charge a driver with criminal negligence rather than careless driving.

Under the present law, a driver who is picked up by police for driving infractions, for the next 10 days at least, may be faced with the more serious charge of criminal negligence under the Criminal Code of Canada rather than the less serious careless driving charge under the B.C. Motor Vehicle Act.

MLA Sees Merger Ills

City Likes Snob Hills

A danger of a shuffle in real estate values if Victoria and Saanich are united was pictured yesterday by Saanich MLA John D. Tisdale.

"I foresee a great real estate values shuffle if the merger is consummated," said Tisdale. "The city of Saanich is a snob hill, and the city of Victoria is a snob hill. If they are united, the snob hill will be flattened."

They were introduced with Monday but Mr. Bennett said he had no doubt that the city of Saanich would be a snob hill. He said that the city of Saanich was a snob hill and the city of Victoria was a snob hill. If they are united, the snob hill will be flattened.

Retarded Children's School Site Cleared

Butchers were to work yesterday clearing the site for a new school building for retarded children at 177 West Saanich Road. Work will start on the foundations next week. Labor unions have offered free services of their members on the job and donations of material will be accepted by the Greater Victoria Retarded Children's Association.

Butchers were to work yesterday clearing the site for a new school building for retarded children at 177 West Saanich Road. Work will start on the foundations next week. Labor unions have offered free services of their members on the job and donations of material will be accepted by the Greater Victoria Retarded Children's Association.

Removal of 120 Trees Recommended Again

The Parks Commission will recommend to the city council that more than 120 large old trees, mostly elms, be removed from city boulevards and replaced with smaller and more attractive trees.

I'm worried about her all the time, though she says she's never felt better in her life. Is this good or bad?—L.S.T

Parents who want to know these facts are not nosy. They simply have brains enough to pay attention to the company their daughter keeps. Want anything else answered in the paper?

For the first time I realized I had all three, and suddenly I didn't care if he brought me a present or not. I know

Traffic Fines

Re-Creation by Torture

This is the sixth article in a series of 10 by the author of "Brave New World."

By ALDOUS HUXLEY

In the preceding articles I have described the techniques of what may be called wholesale mind-manipulation. But no human problem can be solved by wholesale methods alone. The shotgun has its place, but so has the hypodermic syringe. In the articles that follow I shall describe some of the more effective techniques, for manipulating not crowds, not entire publics, but isolated individuals.

In the course of his epoch-making experiments on the conditioned reflex, Ivan Pavlov observed that, when subjected to prolonged physical or psychic stress, laboratory animals exhibit all the symptoms of a nervous breakdown.

Even the most stoical dog is unable to resist indefinitely. If the stress to which he is subjected is sufficiently intense or sufficiently prolonged, he will end by breaking down as abjectly and as completely as the weakest of his kind.

Pavlov's findings were confirmed in the most distressing manner, and on a very large scale, during the two World Wars. As the result of a single catastrophic experience, or of a succession of terrors less appalling but frequently repeated, soldiers develop a number of disabling psychophysical symptoms.

Endurance Limited

Every man, like every dog, has his own individual limit of endurance. Most men reach their limit after about 30 days of more or less continuous stress under the conditions of modern combat. The more than average susceptible succumb in only 15 days. The more than average tough can resist for 45 or even 50 days. Strong or weak, in the long run all of them break down.

Whatever may have happened in earlier years, it seems fairly certain that torture is not extensively used by the Communist police today. They draw their inspiration, not from the inquisitor or the SS man, but from the physiologist and his methodically conditioned laboratory animals.

For the dictator and his policemen, Pavlov's findings have important practical implications. If the central nervous system of dogs can be broken down, so can the central nervous system of political prisoners.

But confusion is not enough. A hopeless neurotic is no use to anyone. What the intelligent and practical dictator needs is not a patient to be institutionalized, or a victim to be shot, but a convert who will work for the cause.

New Behavior

Turning once again to Pavlov, he learns that, on their way to the point of final breakdown, dogs become more than normally suggestible. New behavior patterns can easily be installed while the dog is at or near the limit of its cerebral endurance, and these new behavior patterns seem to be ineradicable.

During the Korean War, military prisoners, in their Chinese camps, were systematically subjected to stress.

Thus, for the most trivial breaches of the rules, offenders would be summoned to the commandant's office, there to be questioned, browbeaten and publicly humiliated. And the process would be repeated, again and again, at any hour of the day or night.

This continuous harassment produced in its victims a sense of bewilderment and chronic anxiety.

ALDOUS HUXLEY

The aim was to create within the camp a nightmarish society, in which everybody was spying on, and informing against, everyone else. To these mental stresses were added the physical stresses of malnutrition, discomfort and illness.

These Pavlovian techniques were remarkably successful. One out of every seven American prisoners was guilty, we are officially told, of grave collaboration with the Chinese authorities; one out of three of technical collaboration.

It must not be supposed that this kind of treatment is reserved by the Communists exclusively for their enemies. The young field workers, whose business it was during the first years of the new regime, to act as communist missionaries and organizers in China's innumerable towns and villages, were made to take a course of indoctrination far more intense than that to which any prisoner of war was ever subjected.

One after another, or in whole groups, the trainees break down. Neurotic and hysterical symptoms make their appearance. Some of the victims commit suicide, others (as many, we are told, as 20 per cent of the total) develop a severe mental illness.

Those who survive the rigors of the conversion process, emerge with new and ineradicable behavior patterns. All their ties with the past—friends, family, traditional decency and pieties—have been severed. They are new men, re-created in the image of their new god and totally dedicated to his service.

In politics Pavlov seems to have been an old-fashioned liberal, but by a strange irony of fate, his researches and the theories he based upon them have called into existence a great army of fanatics dedicated heart and soul, reflex and nervous system, to the destruction of old-fashioned liberalism, wherever it can be found.

You can't BARGAIN with disaster!

Did you ever stop to think, there's often a good reason why one product costs a little more than another?

Take your property or liability insurance, for example. Suppose your policy is suddenly put to the test by a serious loss. A ruined house. An automobile accident involving serious injuries. A home broken into and robbed. It's too late then to find out you're not covered—or not adequately covered.

That is where your independent insurance agent comes in. His job is to see that you are protected with the broadest possible coverage at the lowest possible cost. He likes bargains, too—but only if they are in your best interest. Because he represents not one, but several companies, he can choose the policy that best meets your needs. And when serious trouble comes, he is there to protect your interests to the fullest.

Ottawa Hopeful

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government is hopeful that it may soon be able to reach an agreement with the United States on sharing of the Columbia River on the west coast, Canadian authorities estimated total Canadian expenditures on the development could run to $200,000,000.

Acting Prime Minister How-ard Green said Friday that steps are to be taken at once to complete an agreement with the U.S. which will make co-operative development of the river possible. He said later in an interview that the negotiations will take place on a government-to-government basis.

"We are very keen on this project and we want to get ahead with this as quickly as possible," he added.

His statement followed government receipt of a federal committee report on the economic feasibility of Columbia River development to increase the flow of low-priced power to British Columbia industries and homes.

Laing Warns Voters Of Sacred 'Santas'

ROSSLAND (CP)—Provincial cabinet ministers are winging their way to Rossland-Trail at an astonishingly appropriate time, bringing Santa Claus, "sacks of promises," Liberal leader Arthur Laing told a rally here Thursday night.

Laing advised the audience to consider seriously these

"sacks of promises which were play-backs from 1956."

In Trail, Highways Minister Gagliardi said the amount of roads built in B.C. under Social Credit is a free-world record.

In Penticton, Premier Bennett lashed out at "people who want to sneeze everything but are afraid to stand in the firing line of political life themselves."

Killer Smog Again?

LONDON (UPI)—Britons voiced fears Friday that 25 straight days of thick fog might be turning into a killer smog similar to the one that caused 4,000 deaths in 1952.

Dr. R. T. Cummings of Bartholomew's Hospital, where many smog victims were treated for chest ailments in the last scourge, warned that smoke pollution in London had reached the limit of safety.

Co-operate on Surplus John D. Asks Australia

MELBOURNE (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker called yesterday for Canadian Australian co-operation in disposing of surplus wheat to prevent disruption of normal commercial markets.

"We in Canada have so much wheat we don't know what to do with it," he said.

Australia also has a wheat surplus. In talks Thursday, the Australian cabinet suggested to Diefenbaker the two

Nine Quit United College

WINNIPEG (CP)—Nine of the United College's 52-member teaching staff have submitted their resignations in protest against the college's dismissal of Prof. Harry S. Crowe.

A tenth, Prof. Michael Oliver, who quit last April, said the factor in his leaving the United Church college.

Four professors and an English lecturer threatened on Friday to resign, effective Sept. 1, 1959, unless the college board of regents took action to clear up the situation.

Frogman Battles Ice

WINNipeg, B.C. (CP)—British-born frogman Louis Lounsbury covered another 25 miles of the icy Fraser River Friday, spending much of his 6½-hour trip crawling over ice floes or smashing his way with his fists through solid ice.

Prof. Crowe was fired in September after a letter, believed critical of college administration, he wrote a colleague, was delivered to the college principal, Dr. Wilfred Lockhart.

A member of the college senate has also tendered his resignation. Rev. Stanley H. Searle of Brandon said his resignation was accepted. He was assured by the board of regents that events might soon take place which would make him change his mind. But so far, he said, nothing had.

Scrap Note, Adenauer Asks Reds

BERLIN (CP)—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer called on the Soviet Union on Friday night to withdraw its note proposing a "free city" plan for West Berlin. He said that would be proof the Soviet Union was ready to talk reasonably about other questions.

Liberals Kick Off Rebuilding Drive

OTTAWA (CP)—The Liberal party took two major steps Friday to strengthen its national organization and put some drive behind its 48-member opposition group in the

It also set up a committee to review the federation's 25-year-old constitution. Only B.C. member is Arthur H. Cox of Victoria.

Bruce Matthews of Toronto, federation president, said he will announce soon appointment of a permanent director of organization. Establishment of departments of research, women and youth also is planned.

Iceland Cabinet Stays

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP)—The cabinet of Hermann Jonasson, which has resigned in face of the nation's mounting economic difficulties, will remain in office until a new government is formed.

The government's resignation Thursday followed a five-day crisis over subsidies and wage freezes.
